Compiled as a documentary mix of history and cultural study, the 96-page book offers background on Latino presence in Idaho and also serves as a how-to manual on planning a cultural festival in other communities.

Latinos in Idaho: Celebrando Cultura
Explores the History & Culture of Latinos in Idaho

Published online directly from the Idaho Humanities Council
www.idahohumanities.org or by calling (208) 345-5346
IHC will ship for $3.00 per book

Dishrag Soup & Poverty Cake
Idaho Potluck of Essays on Food

This “potluck” explores recipes and more through the secret ingredients of community, friendship, family and memory. Forty-three contributors from Coeur d’Alene to Pocatello offer culinary tales and recipes worth sharing. As the introduction states, it’s not so much a cookbook per se, but an eclectic mix of poignant and humorous stories of the people behind the food: a Nez Perce root-gathering mentor, a professor mixing politics and blueberry pancakes; survivors of the Great Depression who made soup from almost nothing. ($15.00 + tax)

Published online directly from the Idaho Humanities Council
www.idahohumanities.org or by calling (208) 345-5346
IHC will ship for $3.00 per book

Idaho Wilderness Considered
An anthology of essays, photos, and other reflections

An anthology of essays, photos, and other reflections in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the Wilderness Act and the establishment of new wilderness areas in Idaho in 2015. The book features contributions by 25 Idahoans, including an interview with Governor Cecil Andrus on his life in conservation, an essay by U.S. Congressman Mike Simpson on Boulder-White Clouds legislation, and more. ($15.00 + tax)

Published online directly from the Idaho Humanities Council
www.idahohumanities.org or by calling (208) 345-5346
IHC will ship for $3.00 per book

Publications

Idaho Wilderness Considered
An anthology of essays, photos, and other reflections

An anthology of essays, photos, and other reflections in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the Wilderness Act and the establishment of new wilderness areas in Idaho in 2015. The book features contributions by 25 Idahoans, including an interview with Governor Cecil Andrus on his life in conservation, an essay by U.S. Congressman Mike Simpson on Boulder-White Clouds legislation, and more. ($15.00 + tax)